OVERVIEW

Since 2003 Organix Pest Control has been providing homes and Industrial/Commercial workspaces with Organic non-invasive, green, eco-friendly pest control services that are 100% effective and safe for businesses, families, pets and food. Our mission is to save lives and protect public health from the toxic pesticide poisons which other pest control companies generously use. We strongly believe that going green, quality, affordability, customer service and excellence should come as a standard. Support our cause and positively contribute to securing a better future for our posterity.

We are dedicated to protecting and enhancing the health of businesses, families, pets and our fragile environment.

ORGANIC UNIQUE COMPOUND

Organix Pest Control utilizes a distinctive NATURAL organic biodegradable compound in its services, offering a dual-action approach. This compound serves as an enticing attractant for pests, acting as an irresistible food source that also targets their vital organs, leading to their demise after ingestion. Notably, cockroaches carry this compound back to their colonies, thereby spreading the infestation throughout their entire population. This unique strategy allows us to target infestations at their core, effectively eliminating ALL hidden infestations that may not be visible to the naked eye. In contrast to services that rely on contact-killing compounds, our approach ensures a comprehensive treatment, going beyond surface-level extermination.

INTEGRATED PEST MANAGEMENT

There are ways to use pesticides alongside other measures to improve safety and efficacy. Integrated pest management (IPM) is an environmentally sensitive way of managing pests. Learn about IPM and read some case studies with examples of how it can be used.

TRUSTED, EFFECTIVE, PROVEN METHODS

Organix Pest Control is a trusted brand and is the Number 1 choice for businesses and homes that care about Health, the Environment, and long-term pest eradication. We provide effective control for all kinds of pests in all kinds of industries. No disruption to business operations and no health or environmental hazards.

PESTICIDE-FREE ZONES

SAY NO TO PESTICIDES, SAY YES TO ORGANIC!

PESTICIDES-FREE ZONES define true sustainable life-saving practices and caring for life on the planet. In this day and age, and with an increasingly healthier and environmentally conscious population, consumers and employees expect companies not only to engage in their health but also to be a demonstrable force of change in their communities.

Pesticide-Free Zone Branding is good for business and validates environmental, social, and health claims, setting you apart from the competition. Pesticides contaminate soil, water, turf, and other vegetation. In addition to harming overall health, pesticides only kill what they come in contact with leaving the colony to grow and spread. They also kill a host of other organisms important to life on earth, including but not limited to; birds, fish, beneficial insects essential to pollination, and non-target plants.

Organix Pest Control delivers a service that makes a difference in every sense.

Health & Safety

Eliminating pesticides reduces the risk of exposure to harmful chemicals for humans, pets, and wildlife. It promotes a safer environment for everyone, especially children who are more vulnerable to the effects of pesticides.

Environmental Protection

Pesticide-free zones help preserve and protect ecosystems. By avoiding the use of pesticides, you contribute to the conservation of biodiversity, protect beneficial insects and pollinators, and maintain a healthier balance in the natural environment.

Water Quality

Pesticides can contaminate water sources through runoff, affecting both surface water and groundwater. By implementing a pesticide-free zone, you prevent the pollution of water bodies, safeguarding water quality for drinking, irrigation, and aquatic life.

Sustainable Agriculture

Soil Health

Pesticide-free zones support sustainable agricultural practices. By exploring alternative methods like organic farming, integrated pest management (IPM), or biological control, you can protect crops without relying on chemical pesticides. This promotes long-term agricultural sustainability and reduces dependence on synthetic inputs.

Promoting Biodiversity

By avoiding pesticides, you create a more hospitable environment for beneficial insects, birds, and other wildlife species. This helps maintain biodiversity and supports natural pest control mechanisms, such as predator-prey relationships.

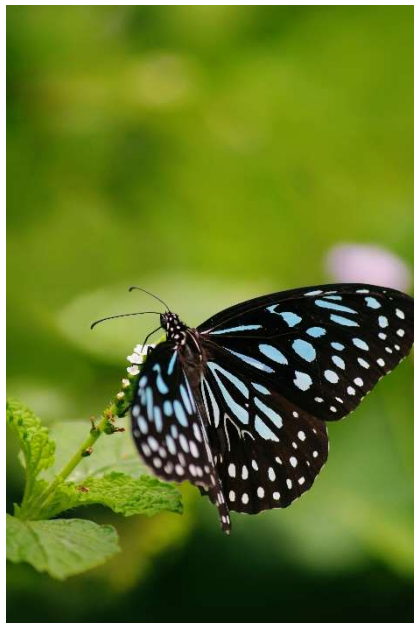

Public Perception & Reputation

Establishing a pesticide-free zone demonstrates a commitment to environmental stewardship and health-conscious practices. It can enhance your reputation among environmentally conscious individuals, customers, and communities who appreciate businesses or organizations that prioritize sustainability and eco-friendly practices. Pesticides can degrade soil quality and harm beneficial organisms, disrupting the natural soil ecosystem. By avoiding their use, you allow soil organisms to thrive, maintain nutrient cycling, and promote a healthier soil structure.

Long-Term Cost Savings

While transitioning to pesticide-free methods may require initial investments and adjustments, it can lead to long-term cost savings. By focusing on preventive measures, sustainable practices, and natural pest control solutions, you can potentially reduce the need for expensive pesticide treatments and associated costs.

Keeping Businesses, & People Safe

Pesticides and Pests can harm any business or home and can threaten the safety of all, including operations. Not only do pesticides kill and cause long-term health issues but so do pests. This can spell disaster for businesses and homes.

Best Practice, Better Hygiene

Illnesses like streptococcus, salmonella, leptospirosis, encephalitis, staphylococcus, Ross River fever, dengue fever, and even the terrible bubonic plague can all be transmitted by pests. You won't need to worry about the spread of illnesses or the health effects of pesticides with Organix Pest Controls' Services. We are dedicated to providing high-quality safe and effective pest control services.

Less Time Spent Cleaning

Infestations with pests like mice, rats, cockroaches, and termites require constant cleaning and destroy everything they come in contact with. By eliminating these pests, your premises instantly becomes cleaner and more hygienic. Our services eliminate the threat and destruction they pose, saving you money and time!

Non-Toxic Earth Friendly
